Numb. 3811

The Daily Courant.

Monday, January 11. 1714.

London, January 11.
On Saturday arrived the Mail from Holland of Tuesday last.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Jan. 13.
Naples, December 12.

WE have an Account by some Barks which are arrived from Palermo, that the Spanish Troops which were in Garrison at Messina and other Places, were embarked on several Transports for Spain, under the Convoy of three English Men of War, one of which was to take on board the Marquis de los Balbazes late Viceroy of Sicily. We have since Advice from Reggio, that they were actually sailed for the Coast of Valencia. The Coronation of the King of Sicily was fixed to the 26th Instant, and he had made several Knights, to render the Ceremony the more Solemp.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Jan. 13.
Madrid, Dec. 25. The Queen recovers Strength by slow Degrees, and 'tis hoped will soon have perfect Health. A Courier who came higher the 20th from Alicant, has brought an Account, that the Troops which served in Sicily, arrived the 16th of this Month in that Port, in very good Condition, and that Preparations were made for imbarcking them on the Ships which were there, and on others which were expected from divers Parts of the Coast and from Genoa, where several were hired. The Advices from the Camp before Barcelona confirm, that there was still great Division and great Conternation among the Inhabitants: That the Duke de Popoli continued to cause the Posts on the Coast to be secured, to hinder the conveyeing of Provisions into that Town, and that his Camp was reinforced by the Spanish Troops which served in the Netherlands. Letters from Solsona of the 12th of this Month relate, that on the 11th Brigadier Don Joseph Vallejo, who commands in that Town and on the neighbouring Frontier, was informed that the Rebels of Cardona had marched out with two Companies of Grenadiers, a Detachment of 150 Men of regular Troops, 150 Miquelets, and all their Volunteer Horse to the Number of above fourscore, to attack a House within a League of Solsona, where was posted Signior Minnonnes de Falco with his Company of faithful Miquelets. Immediately he took the Field with all his Horse and Dragoons, ordering all the Companies of Grenadiers of the Garrison to follow him, who yet were not necessary, for assoon as the Rebels saw him, their Horse ran away full speed, so that they were quickly out of Sight. Their Foot brook themselves to Flight likewise, with all possible Haste; however, the Horse and Dragoons overtook them, and cut them down, till Don Joseph Vallejo commanded to give them Quarter. The Enemy's Loss, as far as could yet be known, was, Don Pedro d'Alba y Marques Governour of the Town of Cardona, and the Major of the Regiment of the City of Barcelona who was also Major of the Town and Castle of Cardona, both dangerously wounded, taken Prisoners. Of the 2 Captains of Grenadiers, 1 was killed the other wounded and taken; and of the 2 Lieutenants, 1 was killed likewise and 1 taken, as were 2 Ensigns 1 Sergeant and 30 Men. The other Sergeant was killed, as also the 2 Drummers. The rest were pursued within a League of Girona, and had not Night come on, hardly one had escaped: Yet of 150 Foot they lost 100, with two Carts loaded with Powder, Bullets, Grenadoes, and Tools. Of the King's Troops, only 1 Miquelet was killed, and 2 wounded with 2 Horses. The Company of Signior Minnonnes de Falco defended themselves two Hours with extreme Vigour, tho' Part of the House where they were was burnt by the Enemy.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Jan. 16.
Genoa, Dec. 13. We have received Advice by a Vessel arrived from Port-Mahon, that the Catalonians have bought there a Man of War of 74 Guns, to reinforce their Squadron. They add, that the Spaniards have provided a good Number of Ships for transporting Troops, in order to attack the Island of Majorca, and afterwards Barcelona: But 'twas much doubted whether their naval Strength be sufficient for that Expedition, seeing the Catalonians are able to oppose them with a pretty considerable Squadron. Some of the Earl of Peterborough's Servants are arrived here, and he himself is speedily expected, in his Way to Sicily.

From the Paris Letter, dated Jan. 12.
Paris, Jan. 12. We have no News from Rastad, more than that the Conferences are continued between Prince Eugene and the Marshal de Villars. M. du Cassé who is intirely recovered of his Indisposition, is to set out speedily to command the Spanish Squadron before Barcelona. The King has sent Orders for fitting out in several Ports of France 14 Men of War, with divers Frigates and Bomb-Vessels, to go and joyn that Squadron, on which 10 or 12000 Land-Soldiers are to be imbarked, with a vast Quantity of all sorts of Ammunition and Provisions and Tools to break up Ground; so that this Force which is the most considerable that we have yet set out by Sea, makes us judge that some other Expedition is in View than the Reduction of Majorca and Barcelona; and if it be true (as is given out) that the Archduke though he make Peace with France, will not make Peace with with Spain, nor yield Sardinia to the Elector of Bavaria, the Design may be to make a Descent on that Island, the Inhabitants of which are weary of the Dominion of the Germans, and desirous to return under that of King Philip.

London, January 11.
